

Skin flicks

iSkin's silicone cases, which wrap your iPod in shades of electric blue, Day-Glo pink and other hue-bris, in addition to more dignified tones of gray and black, are available now for more stylish Mac daddies. A hinged docking port cover and transparent screen protector also shield your iPod from the elements—and from unfortunate encounters with an overfilled Chai tea. About $25 at iSkin.com. —J.A.S.

Satellite link

Satellite radio has come a long way since the days of, uh, last year, when all you could get was a bulky boombox and a car adapter. These days everyone's got access to their own Very Wide Array of interstellar bounce-back.

One of our favorite satellite gadgets is the Delphi XM MyFi Portable Satellite Radio Receiver. With more than 2 million subscribers, XM is the most popular sat-rad provider in the country: 130 channels; CNN, FOX and Bloomberg; plus affordable subscriptions ($9.99/month). XM's TuneSelect alerts whenever your favorite songs are playing on other channels. Scrolling sports and stock tickers ensure your bets pay off. $349.99 at bestbuy.com. —Jennifer Acosta-Scott
